Firm changes name to Floyd, Pflueger & Ringer, adds medical malpractice defense to current offerings

SEATTLE – January 3, 2008 – One of Seattle's top medical malpractice defense attorneys announced today that she is joining the firm of Floyd & Pflueger P.S. along with a team of seasoned trial lawyers from her former practice at Kingman, Ringer & Horne.

The name of the expanded firm will be Floyd, Pflueger & Ringer.

"We couldn't be more pleased to welcome Rebecca and her team," said Francis Floyd, founder of Floyd & Pflueger. "Her success litigating and defending complicated health care cases is a perfect strategic fit with our existing civil trial practice groups.

"Rebecca is a well-respected professional and handles her clients with integrity and class."

Ringer has extensive trial and appellate experience, particularly in the defense of professional negligence claims against physicians and other health care providers, medical device and product liability claims, and other areas of complex litigation.

She earned her B.A. from the University of Kansas, and her J.D. from Cornell Law School. Her memberships include the King County Bar Association, the Washington State Bar Association, the American Bar Association, the Washington Defense Trial Lawyers Association, and Volunteer Attorneys for Persons with AIDS.

Ms. Ringer is the incoming vice-president of the Washington Chapter of the American Board of Trial Advocates and is AV-rated by Martindale-Hubbell.

Joining Ms. Ringer at Floyd, Pflueger & Ringer will be David J. Corey, Melisa K. Thompson and Tammy L. Williams. In addition, Kerry B. Gress has become a Partner.

About Floyd, Pflueger & Ringer, P.S.

Floyd, Pflueger & Ringer (FPR) is one of Seattle's premier boutique law offices committed to the litigation needs of insurance companies, self-insured corporations, hospitals, medical centers and other professionals. The firm was established in 1991 to provide aggressive, responsive and cost-effective services and has built an enviable record representing clients throughout the Northwest and Alaska. FPR places a high value on delivering exceptional high-level counsel without the overhead associated with larger firms. As a result, the firm enjoys long-term relationships with clients based on superior results, personal attention and excellent value. Firm principals Francis S. Floyd and Rebecca Ringer have both been named by Law & Politics magazine as 'Super Lawyers', an annual award based predominantly on peer nomination.
